FIP world congress 2027, themed “Bridging worlds: Global knowledge, local Realities and better care” aims to explore how pharmacy can bridge global knowledge with local realities, turning science into better care. The congress will explore pressing health challenges of the Western Pacific Region: the rise of non-communicable diseases, infectious threats, population ageing, and persistent inequities in healthcare access.

The congress is structured around three subthemes, each addressing key facets of this overarching theme.

- The subtheme “Global evidence, shared responsibility” focuses on how global research, guidelines, and innovation can be responsibly applied in practice.

- “Local contexts matter” emphasises on education, workforce development, and culturally responsive practice.
- “Resilient health systems in action” explores pharmacy practice as a driver of stronger, more resilient health systems.

This congress is set to be a global gathering, with expectations of welcoming over 3,000 participants from around the world. Attendees will represent a rich diversity of nationalities, professional backgrounds, and areas of expertise within the field of pharmacy.

Join us in Kuala Lumpur to be part of this dynamic global platform, where meaningful discussions, exchange of ideas, and innovative thinking come together to inspire the future of pharmacy.
